Outside Magazine chooses Global Rescue in recent travel awards

Global Rescue is excited to have been singled out in the recent Outside Magazine travel awards. We were nominated as runner-up in the 'Best Travel Investment' category. It was also great to see a long time partner of ours, Geographic Expeditions, chosen as the 'Best Travel Company'. They deserve it.

Outside said:

"The official emergency-response service for the U.S. ski and snowboard teams and the American Alpine Club, Global Rescue has saved a woman gored by a Cape buffalo in Africa and climbers caught in a violent miner's strike in Indonesia. Its medics are largely military-trained former Special Forces, and they're like having a Navy SEAL team at your disposal. They'll not only get you out of danger, but they'll also deposit you at the hospital of your choice (wherever that may be). Individual memberships, $329 per year for medical only and $655 with security."
